

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Greetings in the name of our soon coming Savior and Lord, We are living in perilous times, there is no doubt that the coming of Jesus is much closer than we think. The Bible says in James 5:8 "Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." The Second Coming of Christ is the blessed hope; it is an event of promise. The clarion call of Scripture is that we live in anticipation and preparation for that great day. "Christ is coming soon. He declared that when there would be wars and rumors of wars, when there would be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in diverse places, we might know that the time of his second appearing is near. The wickedness, the turmoil, the disturbances on every side, should be regarded by us as signs that the day of God is at hand. 'When these things begin to come to pass,' he declared, 'then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh' "(Review and Herald Nov. 19, 1914).

If we are to understand the drawing near of our redemption we must adopt the frame of mind of the Lord's listeners. The redemption that is at hand will not bring us to Heaven. The people to whom the Lord was speaking would not think in terms of making their eternal home in Heaven. The message is simple today. Yet, this text is a time-sensitive message. The text before us in Luke 21: 28 is straight forward and clear. I see three verb forms that are all time sensitive in Luke 21: 28—(1) It's time to straighten up. (2) It's time to lift up our heads (3) It's time for Jesus to return--our redemption is drawing near, I want us to examine three action verbs that the Word teaches—two of these we are to obediently follow The last verb is what Jesus will do, whether or not we are prepared. The last verb is sure—our redemption is drawing near. Nothing can deter our redemption from coming soon.

The real truth is that we are all closer to death than the second coming of Christ; I am not saying that Jesus coming is not imminent. The fact of the matter is that we may die before Jesus Comes. Whether we are prepared for Jesus' return, straightened up, with our heads lifted up, He is still coming soon. The tarrying of the Lord is running out. Eggizo means to be at hand, to come near, to draw near, or to approach closely. Whether we are ready or not, Jesus is coming. Time is running out. The squeeze is on. This could be the last Sabbath worship for someone present here today.

He could come today, but if not, we should look for Him tomorrow. He could come this week, but if not, we should look for Him next week. He could come this year, but if not, we should look for Him next year. His coming may even be years away, but nonetheless we are wait and expect Him to come just as He said. We are in a state of being ready while continuing to get ready, walking in all the light God gives us and at the same time pressing on and seeking further instructions from God. To be ready means to live continuously in readiness for the Lords coming. Jesus says, "Be ready." "Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh" (Matt. 24:44). Are you ready? Am I Ready?

Yours in the blessed hope

PASTORAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Let's make Building God's house of Worship our Priority

As in the days of Haggai, many of God's people today, are busy with their own homes, works and desires, and leave the house or work of the Lord undone (Haggai 1:2-13). God often withholds His blessings when we take this approach. We must begin to become concerned about building God's house and His Kingdom. A sanctuary is a sacred place. Sacred means holy. Holy means purity and separation from that which is common. Historically, a church sanctuary has always been considered a sacred place where God's people come together to worship Him in reverence and awe; in spirit and in truth. They separate themselves from the common everyday elements of the world in order to glory in God's goodness.

John Ruskin wrote these lines, which are applicable to the vision of the builders of this structure:

When we build, let us think that we build forever.

Let it not be for present delight nor for present use alone.

Let it be such a work as our descendents will thank us for, and let us think as we lay stone on stone that a time will come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look upon the labor and wrought substance of them,

"See, this our Fathers did for us."

Here we behold that which links our lives with the centuries and the generations that have gone by. In architecture, stained glass, wood carving, we enter into the great stream of the history of the Christian Church.

Dean Sperry of Harvard wrote this, "If the church does nothing else for the world than to keep an open house, symbolic of the home land of the soul, where in season and out of season men may re-affirm their faith in the fatherhood of God, it is doing the social order, the greatest possible good, and no other service it renders to society can compare in importance with this."

Q2 THEME SONG: LEARNING TO LEAN^{CG}

(Chorus) Learning to lean
Learning to lean,
I'm learning to lean on Jesus
Finding more power than I've ever dreamed
I'm learning to lean on Jesus.

The joy I can't explain fills my soul
The day I made Jesus my king
His Blessed Holy Spirit is leading my way
He's teaching and I'm learning to lean

Sad broken hearted, at an alter I knelt
I found peace that was so serene
And all that He asks is a childlike trust
And a heart that is learning to lean

There's a glorious victory, each day now for me
I've found peace so serene
He helps me with each task, If I'll only ask
Everyday now I'm learning to lean

STEWARDSHIP MOMENTS

What is in thine hand?

The Lord said to [Moses], "What is that in your hand?" He said, "A rod." And he said, "Cast it on the ground. So he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from it. But the Lord said to Moses, "Put out your hand, and take it by the tail" -- so he put out his hand and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand -- "that they may believe that the Lord, the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you." Exodus 4:2-5.

The staff was, indeed, a necessity for making a living, and sometimes for simply staying alive. No shepherd dared leave home without it. The rod was indispensable, essential, and vital to the everyday life of the shepherd.

"Throw it down." For all Moses knew, God was telling him to get rid of his rod. He might never see it again. And it was a good rod. It had just the right grip and flex and swing weight. Moses was used to it.

I suspect, if we were to narrow it down to the one most important possession of all, it would be our money. If we had to give up all else and begin fresh with only one material possession, we would choose money. We could, after all, use money to purchase all the other necessities -- food, clothing, shelter. Money tends to be the one thing we hold onto tighter than anything else. It is, after all, the one thing we have which provides all the essentials, and even some of the luxuries we need and expect in life. We take great pains to make sure we have enough and to keep from spending it too quickly.

Our decisions to keep more and give less say less about our financial savvy than they do about our faith. What we do with our money is the greatest indicator of our Christian commitment -- more so than how much time we spend doing church work, or how many visitors we invite to church, or how many good deeds we do. If you want to know what a person really values, what a person really believes in, read his or her checkbook ledger.

How do we really know that we will not have enough money if we faithfully return tithe and offerings to the Lord? How do we know we cannot afford to increase our giving? We will not until and unless we step up in faith and try! Our future, economic and otherwise, is in the hands of one person, and His name is Jesus. When we trust God enough to throw down our money in support of His church, we cannot know what to expect. When He allows us to use His money, we will perform miracles to be forever remembered in His Church.

What is that in your hand? Throw it down!
